Self-Publishing Spotlight

Son of the Moon by Jennifer Macaire

Book III in the Time for Alexander series.

Timetravelling Ashley is more at ease in the past, but she still has to make sure she doesn't appear in the history books, and still faces the possibility of the Time Senders finding her and erasing her. Alexander has triumphed in Bactria, and with the crown of Persia secure, he can now start seeking his and Ashley's child - Paul - who is in the sacred valley of Nysa being worshiped as the "Son of the Moon". Their search leads them to India - and to heartbreak and treachery. Ashley has to make the most painful choice of her life - stay with the man she's come to love, or stay with her child, and remain forever hidden in the sacred valley.

"In this installment, Alexander and Ashley are in India and they experience the culture's exotic combination of beauty, courage, and treachery as they struggle through the monsoons, confront the formidable war elephants of Porus, and outwit brutal Brahmin rebels. Ashley must also face the reality of Alexander's looming death and consider the possibilities and consequences of cheating fate." ~ Mary Harrsch

Available in e-book and paperback.

Eve, First Matriarch (Ancient Matriarchs Book 1) by Angelique Conger

Eve is a mother to us all. Here is her story of longing, anguish, and hope...

Eve wants nothing more than to fulfill God's two commandments: live in absolute obedience and replenish the earth with her children. But the power of the Destroyer is strong, and when she's told she has a chance to fulfill the second commandment by breaking the first... she takes it.

Expelled from a garden paradise into a wild, dangerous world, Eve learns that her failure to obey will someday cause her to die. With a limited time to teach Jehovah's commandments to her children, she's devastated when the Destroyer starts to lead them astray. Can Eve overcome evil to teach her children obedience and happiness?

Eve: First Matriarch is a reimagined story of the biblical figure of Eve. If you like rich historical fiction, feminine perspectives, and illuminating stories of motherhood, then you'll love Angelique Conger's debut novel.

Fact or Fiction:

The Ambition & Destiny Series was inspired by a true story, and over the last few months, readers have asked whether certain storylines are based on real life events.

If you have a question please let me know by replying to this email.

From Hooks & Eyes:

Was there a relationship between Mary and Richard?

This storyline is purely fictional.

The reason I included it was because, following Charles' death, the idea of Mary having someone to turn to appealed to me. It was also because at the time they probably saw a lot of each other. I was also intrigued because in the 19th century it was forbidden by the church for a man to marry the wife of his dead brother. This was based on the belief that when a man and wife came together in matrimony, they were seen as one person in the eyes of the church, and in law. This effectively disqualified Mary from marrying any close relatives of her husbands, potentially adding to her woes.

So what about Mr Wetherby and Sarah-Ann?

Yes, there is some truth in this, although everything about it in Hooks & Eyes is fiction. As the story goes on, however, it becomes more grounded in fact although the reason for its inclusion only becomes apparent in When Time Runs Out.

Next month: From Hooks & Eyes: Is it true that Mr Wetherby manufactured Hooks & Eyes?
